

NAVDANYA'S YOUNG ECOLOGISTS PROGRAMME

FOR GRADE 8 BY GREEN BRIGADE

Navdanya is an NGO which encompasses an extensive network of seed keepers and organic producers across 18 states of India. Navdanya has tied up with our school to conduct the Young Ecologists Programme under which they will teach our children the importance of food through their Campaign KNOW YOUR FOOD, KNOW YOUR FARMER. The green brigade has started this project with grade 8 students this year.

The Navdanya resource person Ms. Kavita Singh came to school on the 18th of September, 2015. She gave an enlightening lecture and interactive presentation on the importance of the environment to the 8th grade students. Thereafter, the first session of 'seed sowing' was done to make children aware of how to grow their own food.

Students were enthusiastic and curious to know more about the plants around us. The experience truly enlightened all present there and we look forward to many such sessions with Navdanya organisation in the year to come.
